Registration Open for International Walk to School Day

*Free registration for prizes and downloadable materials,

Registration is now open for 2007 International Walk to School events on Wednesday, October 3, 2007. Communities around the U.S. will join nearly 40 countries to celebrate walking and bicycling to schools.

Registration is free and available to all Walk to School event organizers in the United States. By registering, organizers have a chance to win prizes for students and gain access to a variety of downloadable items, including certificates, printable sticker templates, media materials and more. Registrants can also subscribe to a Walk to School e-newsletter with tips and resources for walk to school events and registered events will be displayed on an interactive map on the Walk to School Web site.

The National Center for Safe Routes to School at the University of North Carolina Highway Safety Research Center serves as the national coordinating agency for International Walk to School events in the United States.
